Description	The Toolkit for Inclusive Teaching Strategies was developed for language teachers in remote teaching contexts. It provides practical strategies to help learners access, participate and progress in the classroom. The toolkit focuses on Special Educational Needs (SEN) and borrows strategies from SEN-specific interventions. These strategies benefit learners with SEN, whether diagnosed or not, and help remove barriers faced by other learners. By offering multiple pathways to success, the toolkit aims to create richer learning experiences for all learners. You don't need to be an expert in SEN to create a more inclusive learning environment.
