

LibriVox (an online digital library)

LibriVox

Language(s) available	English, French, German, Italian, Spanish and 41 more.
Category	Platform, Teaching materials
Type of Resource	Audio files
Author(s)	Hugh McGuire, founder of LibriVox
Country of origin	Hugh McGuire is based in Montreal, Canada.
Date and origin	2005
Targeted group	General Public (Public domain)
Description	LibriVox is an online digital library, with books in audio format, in the public domain and free of charge. LibriVox is a community of volunteers from around the world who read and record audiobooks that anyone can listen to on their computer or other mobile device. The website offers a wide range of audiobooks of different genres and topics. According to LibriVox statistics, the library contains 18,542 catalogued works. About the name: LibriVox is an invented word composed of the Latin words liber (book) in the genitive form libri and vox (voice), thus giving the meaning BookVoice (or voice of the book).
Link	https://librivox.org/