

National Center on Accessible Educational Materials

| | |
|------------------------------|---|
| Language(s) available | English |
| Category | Accessibility |
| Type of document | Video Resources |
| Author(s) | National Center on Accessible Educational Materials (AEM) / The U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP). |
| Country of origin | United States of America |
| Targeted group | Teachers |
| Description | The National Centre on Accessible Educational Materials (AEM) is a resource for anyone who wants to learn more about and implement accessible educational materials (AEM). The Centre works with professionals and private and public stakeholders to develop high-quality accessible educational materials for students with disabilities. Their YouTube channel offers a range of products and services for knowledge development, technical assistance, training and collaboration. These resources are available in a variety of forms, including interactive decision-making tools, videos and webinars. |
| Link | https://www.youtube.com/@AEM_Center/videos |